Genesis 37:13-28

Philippians 2:1-11

What is your relationship with your siblings?

Many church ones in the Bible... Moses, David, Paul, Matthew, and Zacchaeus. It isn't the acts of these individuals but rather the motives of these people.

- Think of your actions this week; talk about something you did and talk about your motives.

Do we wake up with the intention of coming into the presence of the Lord? Whether on a Sunday Morning or a weekday morning.

- Why do we do what we do?
  - Are we humble?
  - Bold?
  - Callous?
  - Conceited?

Job's friends started out looking and sounding good, but soon they turned on him, accusing him of sin, and they found their own self-righteousness in his suffering.

- Do we do that?
- Why

Christ could have been a master but chose to be a servant. He could have lauded himself over and above us but he washed our feet.

- How do you behave around others?
- As Christians how do we deflect Christ and His attitudes?

JD learned a semester of Swedish in a night. But never really understood it.

- Do we think a brief bit of reading the Bible once a week or so lead us to believe we know Jesus?
- Do we think spending hours and hours makes us better than others?
  - What are our motivations in pursuing a relationship with Christ.
