Meditation – Our ability to hear is a fascinating and incredible blessing. It allows us to experience our world in wonderful ways and yet it is challenged on many sides. We can fail to hear something for many reasons. Perhaps the sound maker is not loud enough. Perhaps our ears are not working as well as they should anymore. Yet, there may also be some form of interference in the transmission and reception of the message. What will we do when the interference is in the form of a bias that is so sacred to us that we refuse to relinquish it?

Quiet and Personal Confession

Consider this Prayer of Confession:

O God, we confess that we quite often fail to listen to you. We worship, and we pray, and we give, according to familiar patterns, and so we are slow to respond when you speak to us in new and unique ways. We value comfort and we are well aware of the point at which that comfort will end, so we resist your calling to go further with you in faith and sacrifice. We can clearly hear you command us to love and honor those who are less fortunate than us, but we make ourselves deaf to what you are saying, by refusing to act more fully upon the best of our intentions. Please forgive us for going after worthless things. Please forgive us for not prioritizing your command to love and serve. In Jesus' name we pray, Amen.
