Mission Partner Focus – Hope for the Hopeless

This is a newly formed, Christian-based, higher education program for those in prison which focuses on changing the life trajectory of those incarcerated — improving the safety and security of our communities, and expanding the kingdom of God on earth.

Hope to the Hopeless looks to change the usual trajectory of almost 80% of prisoners who will return to prison by offering classes in Bible studies. We have the opportunity to help to transform the life trajectories of those in prison and improve their success in remaining free upon release! Education, the opportunity for higher education, can be that difference between a return to prison or a life of freedom in Christ.

Meditation – The life and the ministry of Hosea proves that while there will always be large groups of people who will not care at all about following God, the real problem and the thing that really hurts God, is that those who claim to follow God are not faithful to Him. Time and time again, the very people that God has saved, wander away from God. God's own people openly rebel against God, yet God continues to do everything possible to show them grace.

Quiet and Personal Confession

Consider this Prayer of Confession:

O God, just as the disciples knew that their relationship with God needed to be improved, so we come to You now, knowing that we need to grow in our trust of You. Just as they saw that the key to improvement was prayer, we also know that we still need to learn how to pray. We confess that we quite often fail to pray enough, because our schedule is filled with other things. We confess that we pray with our own will in mind, far more than Yours. We confess that we pray poorly, because we lack any sense of our own sin, or of our own need of forgiveness, while being fully aware of the sin of others. Please forgive us for the shortcomings of our prayers, and teach us a better way. In Jesus' name we pray, Amen.
